

Kids + Art + Landscape

Workshop with Stannes Schwarz

Art-projects with children dealing with creating perishable Land-art objects

Parallel to my exhibition The Gallery of the Polar Travellers I would like to offer workshops for children at the particular localities which hosts my exhibition. The aim is to generate Land-Art objects to achieve a new awareness, how art may accentuate the appearance of a landscape. This workshop is addressed to children of 8 years and older.

Both, art-projects with children and creative work in the landscape belong to my artistic repertoire for decades. This workshop could be the first possibility to combine both sections.

Land-Art

My kind of Land-Art is characterized by using only materials, which can be found on location. Mostly stones, branches and even waste, everything, which is sufficiently provided, will be used. These objects, arranged in that manner, are supposed to perish due to the powers of nature.

This kind of art provides a very gentle and poetic way to gain a short term influence over that place.

Kids-Art

My art-projects with kids are aiming to create a work of art together by using the creativity of each individual. Everyone should get the chance to play his part concerning this task. My part is to combine all these aspects and elements, to support and create not only art work, but also a corporate feeling and sensitivity within the group. On this basis of this, pictures, objects and room-decorations where generated, which show the stage of development not only concerning the individuals, but the whole group.
